ABB is a technology leader in the fields of electrification and automation. In China, they established ABB Xinhui Low Voltage Switchgear Company Limited in 1995, producing low voltage electrical appliances. Molded-case circuit breakers (MCCBs) are widely used for industrial control and building power distribution systems. In addition to MCCBs, the company extends its product range into Dual Power Transfer Switches, Disconnecter Switches, Switch Fuses, Soft Starters, Electronic Overload Relays, Thermal Overload Relays, Contactors, Manual Motor Starters etc. The products are not limited to the domestic market but are also exported to European and Asian markets.

During this trip, members will have the opportunity to visit ABB's automated production line, advanced production equipment, R&D competence center, and laboratory. They will be presented with a comprehensive introduction to the company's products, sharing the latest technological advancements and designs in electrical appliances.
